Tips for Rideshare Drivers

- Establish clear boundaries. Clearly communicate expectations for acceptable behavior and maintain professional conversation. You have the right to a safe, respectful work environment.
- Confirm passenger identity. Always verify the passenger's name and destination before they enter your vehicle. Use app-provided features like photo verification, if available.
- Trust your instincts. If something feels off, prioritize your safety. It's okay to decline or end a ride if you feel threatened or unsafe.
- Stay connected. Share your real-time location with a trusted contact. Both Uber and Lyft apps offer safety features to facilitate this.
- Prepare emergency contacts. Keep your phone handy and pre-program emergency numbers for quick access to immediate assistance.
- Intervene safely. If you notice a passenger is being harassed by someone else during pickup or drop-off, calmly offer assistance or suggest calling authorities.
- Report incidents promptly. Immediately report inappropriate or aggressive behavior to your rideshare company and local law enforcement.

Tips for Rideshare Passengers

- Confirm driver and vehicle details. Always verify the car's make, model, license plate, and driver's name/photo before entering the vehicle.
- Wait in safe locations. Choose well-lit, populated areas to wait for your rideshare vehicle.
- Share your trip. Utilize in-app safety features to share your trip progress and ETA with trusted contacts.
- Set clear boundaries. Be respectful, clear, and direct about your comfort levels and boundaries. You deserve respect and safety throughout your journey.
- Trust your gut. If you feel uneasy or sense danger, don't hesitate to ask to end the ride in a safe location and request another ride.
- Stay alert. Avoid excessive substance use that could impair your judgment. If you're intoxicated, travel with a trusted (sober) companion.
- Report concerns immediately. If you experience or witness sexual harassment or assault, report it to both the rideshare company and local law enforcement immediately.
